

LOOKING TO RECRUIT

for your financial capability, welfare reform or debt management teams?

TO ADVERTISE in this new recruitment section, contact Lisa Woodman on 07548 627 303 or lisa@socialpublishingproject.com

Find some of the most switched-on candidates in the UK, by reaching subscribers to the Quids in! Professional Network – a monthly newsletter received by more than 2,000 financial inclusion professionals.

For permanent and temporary jobs, full time and part time, paid and voluntary positions.

Any position advertised will be included in our professional network newsletter and advertised on the Social Publishing Project website, visited by 1,500 people per month

Our members are primarily people working within financial capability and debt management within social housing, charitable and not-for-profit organisations.

Social Publishing Project

SPP uniquely engages people struggling to make ends meet, providers working with them and policy-formers. We influence decision-making so vulnerable people can maximise their financial wellbeing and become more self-reliant. We do this through a sustainable, value-led publishing enterprise that gathers intelligence about life at the hard end and responds with accessible materials sharing practical advice, and by advocating appropriate policy and practice.

Social Publishing Project is the home of Quids in! magazine.